	3 Action has been taken in the Cash section regarding the disposal of the insurance bonus amount as prayed for; and the matter has been referred to this branch for further action.
	4 Scholarships have been awarded from time to time to the children of deceased Officers and Officials. There are no rules to regulate the grant of such schps. Each case is decided on its own merits.
	5 Edn. files 467-09 & 365-10 granting schps. to the children of the late Mr. Raja Rao & Mr. Bhimasena Rao of the Instt are put up.
	6 The son of Mr Narayana Rao is said to be 7 years old and the prayer is for the grant of a schp till he attains his 20th year.
	7 If the grant of a schp is decided on Br. II will have to be consulted.
	8 Attention is invited to the Gen. & Rev. Secy's remarks of 4.12.09 in the service regr. of the deceased

In 365-10 the principle of granting such schps. has been discussed.

(11) In a similar case Mr. Ananda Rao the late Dewan enunciated the following principle:-

" In a Native State we have to be somewhat considerate and the principle which has guided my action in such cases is to allow reasonable pecuniary help to the family of an official who dies in harness prematurely that help not being in excess of the pension which the official would have received if he had lived a few years longer. " This principle seems to be very sound and I may suggest even a further limitation. We may estimate the man's gratuity or proportionate pension if he should be rendered invalid at the time of his death, and a portion of such gratuity or pension may be set apart as scholarship to the children for a few years. The point for consideration is that if a man dies before getting pension and if his family is in want, should his family forego all participation in the pension or gratuity to which he would have been eligible if instead of dying he had lost an eye or limb.[2] In such cases as a rule only 3 points would arise for consideration (1) Is the family really in indigent circumstances[2] (2) Did the official render good services during his life time and was he not wedded to any special form of extravagance,[2] (3) If so what portion of gratuity or proportionate pension may be given as scholarship to his children

But suppose the man dies as soon as he gets a increase (B)

My remarks of pension be treated as deferred pay the benefits of the concession be confined only to cases where the family is left in indigent circumstances

Very Many indigent may be and it would be a

G. M. 56-14 - (1)

Most respected sir,

The humble petition of Sundra Boi, grandmother, guardian and custodian of the minor son Venkata Rao and five minor daughters of the late S. Narayana Rao, Superintendent of Branch VI of the Secretariat Office.

2. The late S. Narayana Rao was married to my daughter Saraswathe Boi about 20 years ago. He was educated by my husband, the late Srinivasa Rao, Forest Ranger in Mysore service and continued to be a member of my family. His wife (my daughter) died about 18 months ago leaving the minor son Venkata Rao aged 7 years and five minor daughters ranging from 3 to 12 years of age The eldest daughter was married about 3 months ago. To the utte misfortunate and affliction of these minor children, the decease who held a decent appointment, died a premature death, leaving the family in a destitute condition. Since the death of my husband who left no substantial property, the late Narayana Rao, was my chief supporter. The deceased has no relations, who may undertake the burden of maintaining the orphanchildren. The latter are attached to me and their miserable condition has rendered my present old age too heavy to bear the calamity.

3. The assets of the deceased are a house in Basavangudi valued at about 3000, rupees and the amount of Government Life Insurance amounting to about Rs. 3500, The liabilities of the deceased ascertained till now amount to nearly 3000/-, including the loan from the Bangalore Co-operative credit Bank to which the house has been mortgaged. The creditors are already on the awake and threatening legal proceedings. The house may there fo fall a certain prey to the outstanding debts of the deceased.

The amount of insurance is therefore the only means for the subsistence of the orphan children and to meet the marriage expenses of the four girls.

4. The minor boy Venkata Rao is attending school and is the only hope of the family. His future education is sure to be greatly imperiled and retarded by the needy circumstances. I therefore appeal to your kind-heartedness and the benevolence of the benign Government, to extend to the orphan boy suddenly landed into a miserable condition, the generosity of a monthly allowance for the continuance of his studies, until he attains majority. The deceased had put in nearly 20 years of service and his record of service may disclose that he continued to be a deserving and trustworthy Official. In the natural course he would have risen to higher appointments and earned a decent pension. The irony of fate has been more than usually cruel in the case of the minor children of the deceased.

5. I implore that your Excellancy may be pleased to take into consideration the above circumstances and grant the request. I also beg that the amount of Life Insurance due to the deceased may kindly be ordered to be transferred to the Government Savings Bank Account or caused to be invested in the Mysore Bank or Co-operative credit Bank, so that the interest on the amount may be available for the maintenance of the family, which since the death of the deceased has been subjected to privation.

I beg to remain,

Most respected sir,

Your most obedient servant.
